

How to Teach Vocabulary and Sentence Structures

It is easy to spend too much time explaining words--for the the teacher to do all of the talking. It is also easy for one or two outgoing students to dominate. We need to get ALL of the students making lots of sentences in the time we have.

1. How do I keep the pace up when teaching vocabulary and sentence structures?
2. How do I make sure that everyone is saying the words and sentences and not just mumbling or saying 'watermelon'?
3. What questions or concerns do you have?
